THE question of trade routes to Western China is discussed by the Rangoon Gasette in connection with an address on the opening of Chungking delivered by Mr. Glasgow Chamber of Commerce. Mr. LITTLE. Southern China. It would be long, he said, before either of these proposals would be tapping the heart of China." On this our Rangoon contemporary very sensibly remarks : " Although the ardent advocates of this or that route always talk as if their particular scheme was exactly similar to China trade would flow into the channels to our French neighbours in Tonkin. But favour of the Bhamo route more than of the under the heading of liqueurs. others; and as this route has always been a used in spite of all obstacles, and no great scheme is necessary in connection with it. nothing being required but quiet and steady progress in the direction we are already going, this route will probably keep well ahead of the others." The difficulties in the way of the trade from Bhamo, we are told. are being gradually done away with The Flotilla Company's steamers have for several years past been plying regularly to Bhamo, the exactions of the Burmese officials are a thing of the past, and the various Highland chieftsins beyond Bhamo are being brought gradually to at least their blackmail. When the with China, even if a railway is not forth-with commenced roads and bridges for cart traffic will be made to the limit of Both routes serve the trade of Hongkong, and there is no particular reason why we should prefer the one to the other so long as a fair field and no favour is granted. What is desired is to reach the consuming markets as cheaply as possible, and if the French can offer advantages in this direction, so much the better for trade. Sir GEORGE BOWEN, in despatch to Lord DERBY, reprinted in "Fifty Years of Colonial Government," speaking of a visit of the Captain of the Kersaint to Government House, says :- "Count DE BEAUMONT, and all the other Frenchmen with whom I have conversed late concur in the admission of their countrymon, M. du CAILLAUD (in his recently published work. are the statements of French officers and political writers, who also admit, further, that if ever the route through Tonkin into the neighbouring provinces of China acquires its proper and natural importance, it will be Hongkong that will benefit by it; it is on the English Colony of Hongkong, and not on our French Colony of Saigon, that the trade of the interior of China-will The greatest attention has been paid to pivot." From Tonkin itself the French are determined to exclude as far as transit trade, for the goods, if heavily mulcted in one direction, will naturally go by another; the effect would simply be that Tonkin! would lose the transit trade and France would gain nothing. But while this Colony the 26th September, 1889. This state is produced by precisely the same break of nervous balance as that which has been described above. During the night the over-exhausted lower limbs have been recuperated at the expense of the other parts of the vi al machinery, the bruin, the digestive system, and the other great groups of muscular structure, including the muscles of respiration, and the heart itself. So the man rises leg recruited, but not recruited through and through, as he ought to be in order to be in first-rate condition, and feeling all over in rude

I have. however, a few times observed a kind of rh-umatic condition induced in the muscles, attended with considerable pain, and very disabling so long as it lasts. The symptoms do not usually come on during the very act of cycling, but perhaps some bours afterwards, and they last for believe it is as you say so, but we are taking our several hours, it may be days. The attack is always attended with feebleness and depression, and may be sufficient to lead those who feel it severely to give up the exercise, since the effect is not controlled by moderate riding, but being constitutional, may follow a short as well as a long ride -Dr. Richardson in the Asclepiad.

The well-known American statesman and orator, Mr. Chauncey Depew, tells the following story:— In the Berkshire Hills there was a funeral, and as they gathered in the, little par-lour there came the typical New England female, who mingles curiosity with her sympathy, and, as ahe glanced around the darkened room, she said to the bereaved widow: 'Where did you get that new eight-day clock? We ain't got no new eight-day clock, was the reply. You ain't? What's that in the corner here? Why, no, that's not an eight-day clock, that's the deceased; we stood him on end to make room for the mourners," N

The huge number of synonyms for money illustrates remarkably well the variety of sources from which our plang words are recruited, and the remarkable appositeness of some of them. We may talk of our money in scores of ways, among which are, for justance, "the actual." "the needful," or "the wherewithal;" "beaus." "blunt," "tin," or "brass;" 'ohips," "dibs." or "chink," or "shot;" "shek s."" spondalics," or "dollars ?" stamps." "feathers," or " palm oil," which last it such an obviously appropriate mame for it that "shinplasten" seems feeble by comparison; and the young but widely-popular "cof," "cof-bird." and offich," imbecile.

A well-known litterateur and famous whistplayer has just returned from Paris full of admiration for the admirable way in which M. Renan plays "the king of card games." He is never tired of telling his friends at the Athenman of the rubbers he played whilst in Paris with M. Benerius one of his opponents, and speaks of the memory of the author of the "Life of Jesus" as being "predigious." Like Sarah Battle, too. M. Renan when playing whist insists on the 'rigour of the game," though he strongly insists that a rubber is the best form of mental recreation a literary man can go in for. He invariably plays for small points only, and is, as he ought : to be, a most philosophical loser.

The son of John Jacob Astor has proposed to erect an enduring monument of his father in Trinity Church, New York, in the shape of bronze doors which will cost about a hundred thousand dollars. These are to be placed at the main entrance on Broadway, at the head of Wallstreet, and at the supplementary entrances on the north and south sides of the have of the church. They will be massive and imposing and as art productions are expected to surpass anything known in America. Their designing has been entrusted to one of the leading architects: of New Yoak. It is expected that in their chief features they will follow in a measure the portals of the famous baptistery in Florence, in which scenes from the life of Christ are represented.

In Barou de Malortie's " Twint Old Times and New," he relates the following atory :- A certain Baron X boasted that he would make Shad & H. the acquaintance of a well-known Frankfurt Shanchai notress, and to introduce himself wrote the follow- Steamship ing letter : " Baron X can find no words eloquent enough to express his admiration, a little souvenir must be his interpreter; but not knowing if Mdlle. Cabotina prefers rubies, emeralds. or tourquoises, the Baron takes the liberty of ading three bracelets, and will give himself the pleasure of calling at two clock-to-hear which of the three has the good fortune to carry off the palm." The lady a answer was short and to the purpose of As I like bracelets equally I shall keep them all three, and Baron X need, therefore, not trouble himself to call persoually. Augelica Cabotina. Augelina deserves to get on.

To the weary list of abstract questions which people ask one another has now been added. "Ja immoral to touch up a photograph?" "Immoral" is a large word to apply to a small thing; but Mr. Alfred Paterson, who has started the discussion in the Photographic Quarterly, is an austere morahet. Still Mr. Paterson is man of the world enough to perceive that, if portraits were not touched up photographers would speedily bave nothing to do. We go to the photographer not to have our portraits taken, but to be invested with artistic merit. No women. however handsome objects to being made even more seductive by the art of the photographer while the vanity of the good-looking man is notorious: The photographer who fulls to make a pretty picture is sither a bungler on a dealer in displeasing verscities; and in either case be may as well put up the shutter at once.

A lady contemporary, writing on the subject of summer fashions, tells us that girls who play lawn tennis or cricket are much exercised in their minds as to what will be worn during the selson. The skirt of last year is said to have had its day, and there is suggestion of smarter jackets and trimmed bodices in its place. If so, it must proceed from the dressmakers, for the girls who play in carnest want nothing that will handicar them in the way of costume. A short skirtnot too full to catch the wind, or too parrow to be any hindrance—and a blouse bodice is the most sensible and practical dress for mixed company, and to this we shall find all the best lady athletes adhering, as it is capable of dainte modifications and originality. At sirls schools, and under circumstances in which the attendance is contined to their own sex, we may possibly hear of the gymnastic tunic and knickerbockers being worn; but this is not likely to be generally adopted in either tennis tournaments or oricket matches.

The other day M. Mashkov, the semi-political representative of the Novoe Vremue at the Court of King Menelek returned to St. Petersburg. We now hear from Diebutti, the next station to Obok on the road to Abyssinia, of a small expedition of three, led by M. Kargopoloy. This enterprising traveller started from Tashkent early in October, and having crossed by sea from Usun-Ada to Bafrush (the Persian landing-place in the Caspian), proceeded right through Persis to Bender Bushira on the Gulf "In order to reach Aden, M. Kargopolov and his companions had first to sail for Bombay, where they were detained by the police for a fortnight, and questioned on their business in Per ia. After this disagre-able adventure, their reception in Obok by the French authorities formed a delightful contrast. But then, this expedition is not, like its celebrated predecessor, led by an Ashinov, a free Cossack burning to emulate the exploits of Yermak, and to found a viscovite empire in the bighlands of Axum Their announced designs lightning; o. overest; p. passing showers; q. sohally; are very modest; namely, to make collections of rain; s. snow; t. thinder; v. visibility w. dew (wet). are very modest, namely, to make collections of the fautis, insects, and minerals. Kharrar is their objective after leaving Djebatti.

Madamo Tsobsbrikova has not been released but has been transported to Penza, in the Caucasus, and placed there under strict police surveillance. She has been conveyed (says the Vieuns correspondent of the Times) to her destination in a kibitka or collular carriage without windows, and under an escort of gendarmes, rapidly driven over bad roads, and with no halts except in the open country, where there was no inn to afford her a few hour's rest; she has been abominably fed, and denied all companionship. The transportation of the high-spirited lady who dered to tell Alexander III. the truth about the condition of his Empire seems to have been accomplished under every conceivable condition of hardship. It may be that the Czar intended to release Madame Tschebrikova, but autocrates lave but little effective power over the barenarcrate who govern in their names. The details as to Madame Tackebrikova's transportion having been quickly communicated to the correspondent on unimperchable evidence is a fact proving what active and watching forces are at work to counteract the system of corruption, cruelty, and misrale which the bureaucracy is Effects the insertion of Advertisements in all

NGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Angio-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service his Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous onjects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word in fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby affecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have beretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English rords, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and [745] other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherte pub-
